

I love living where we can enjoy the changing of the four seasons. Just as I'm growing weary of cold, snowy days curled up in a quilt, the days start to grow longer and I spy tulips peeking through the mulch. Spring gardening, outdoor DIY projects, and evenings on the porch with a glass of iced tea are relished as they will soon pass into much warmer weather. The summer brings more time with our grandkids, trips to the pool and hot afternoons spent sewing in the cool relief of the A/C. And just when the heat starts to seem endless, the evenings cool and we welcome the return of bonfires, pumpkin picking, and star-gazing. We rake leaves, put the garden to bed, stock up on cocoa and snuggle in for winter. Each season gifts us with it's own theme. The certainty of the cycle grounds and inspires me - I love my life here on Bittersweet Lane.
